The poor and vulnerable group household would be disaggregated by disabled/ old age/ extreme poor/ female headed household. The baseline (and follow-up surveys) would be able to generate more disaggregated data for households interviewed (such as gender, disability, income level etc.

2 Key Hygiene behaviors are: hand washing with soap after contact with faecal material and before eating; increase in safe disposal of children’s stools; hand washing with soap before food preparation; safe water storage/handling; and using improved latrines (and others such as disposal of solid waste and waste water etc).

3 Sustainably defined as: covering recurrent costs plus support mechanism for major repairs after one year.

4 Water Supply systems to be disaggregated by type of system and type of management model.

5 Primary target groups are mothers and grandmothers of children under 13.

6 Secondary target groups are villagers, village leaders, village doctors, women cadre, school teachers, WASH Committees.

7 Identified by communities at the beginning of the project.

8 Local consultants, mobilized as part of supervision mission, to carry out a spot check on schemes to gauge what information has been publicized in the village on the project, and what has been reflected in the project planning.

9 Based on the findings of an independent expert panel arranged by the Bank and DFID.

\(^1\) “Routine M&E” data to be disaggregated by “normal” households and “poor and vulnerable group household”. The poor and vulnerable group household would be disaggregated by disabled/old age/extreme poor/female headed household. The baseline (and follow-up surveys) would be able to generate more disaggregated data for households interviewed (such as gender, disability, income level etc).

\(^2\) Key Hygiene behaviors are: hand washing with soap after contact with faecal material and before eating; increase in safe disposal of children’s stools; hand washing with soap before food preparation; safe water storage/handling; and using improved latrines (and others such as disposal of solid waste and waste water etc).

\(^3\) Sustainably defined as: covering recurrent costs plus support mechanism for major repairs after one year.

\(^4\) Water Supply systems to be disaggregated by type of system and type of management model.

\(^5\) Primary target groups are mothers and grandmothers of children under 13.

\(^7\) Identified by communities at the beginning of the project.

\(^8\) Local consultants, mobilized as part of supervision mission, to carry out a spot check on schemes to gauge what information has been publicized in the village on the project, and what has been reflected in the project planning. \(^9\) Based on the findings of an independent expert panel arranged by the World Bank and DFID. Note - These targets associated with these indicators are only indicative and will be updated during implementation.
